

MCCRORY IS OUT ON BOND.

ADMITTED TO BAIL IN THE RIDICULOUS SUM OF $5,000.

Shot Fay Madden, a Railroad Man, in a Drunken Brawl in Front of a Disreputable House on West Third Street Recently.

Phil McCrory, who shot and killed Fay Madden, a railroad man, in a brawl in front of a disreputable house on West Third street, was admitted to bond yesterday by Judge Wofford in the ridiculous sum of $5,000. The bond was furnished and McCrory is a free man, though indicted for murder in the first degree, James Fenderson, and Probate Judge Guinn went on the bond.

It doesn't cost very much to kill people in Jackson county under the present regime. All you have to do is shoot your man, get locked up a few weeks, get out on bond and wait for a jury to either disagree, acquit you altogether or let you off with a light sentence. There will be little difficulty in securing bond and the jury matter can be arranged to the satisfaction of the most criminal murderer. There are plenty of members of the Jackson county Democratic gang to go on your bond, and Jackson county juries, under the same regime, are usually to be relied upon.

This applies, however, only to white men with pails. If you are a colored man, you had better leave your razor or gun at home.

Ask John Schlegel, Bill Adler, B. F. Cates, Tom Hyland, Fred Waitt or any of the other people who during the past year or two have taken human life with little or no provocation. They will write in saying that it is dead easy to evade the full measure of responsibility for attempted or consummated homicides.

B. F. Cates shot down his cousin, Monroe Bales, on the streets of Kansas City just a year ago this week. They had come to the carnival from Richmond, Mo., where they had some trouble. Bales was standing at the corner of Fifth and Wyandotte streets. A few words passed between them and Bales was shot down. He was unarmed. Cates has had two hung juries and is now out on bond. His trials have cost the people of Jackson county something like $7,000.

Fred H. Waitt shot his employer, Morris Landi, in a drunken passion. His attorney, Ralph Latah, played the master trick ever played in Jackson county. Waitt's head was shaved and a new wig was received by the kick of a horse about the time of the war was revealed to the jury day after day. Waitt sat in an assumed stupor all the time, and only revived to make a grand stand assault on the prosecutor. Finally his attorney sprung a certificate that Waitt had been confined in an asylum twenty-five years ago, but it was for alcoholism and not from the effects of the horse's kick. The state made no effort to rebut this evidence by proving that Waitt had been regularly discharged, though he had been employed for years as an expert bookkeeper, which a crazy man is hardly qualified to be. Waitt was acquitted on the grounds of insanity, sent to an asylum and was discharged four months afterwards. He walks the streets to-day with his hands free to take another human life.

Bill Adler, truck and plug ugly, wantonly struck down Postoffice Inspector McClure two years ago this week. He was shot. He got two months in jail, and while serving his time made a murderous assault upon Wallace Thibault, a recently shot down fleeing negro and it remains to be seen whether it is a very serious offense in Jackson county for a white man to shoot a fleeing negro and it remains to be seen whether it is a very serious offense to take the life of even a negro.

Tom Hyland has killed two men with his fist. He escaped all punishment for the first offense and is now in jail awaiting trial for the second. In the absence of influential friends he has not been able to get out on bond. He is now in jail awaiting trial for the second offense.

John Schlegel shot Dr. Lyman A. Berger in the back, after he had secured his most improbable and absurd story ever told under such circumstances. He was smarting under the prosecution of an alleged assault upon his wife made eight months before the killing. He was released on bond and only after his indictment was he returned to prison.

About the only prominent exception to the rule of official inaction, if not condonation, of the crime of taking human life is Dr. J. D. Goddard, who shot Fred J. Jackson in a quarrel over Goddard's relations with Mrs. Jackson. Even he was admitted to bond, but could not give it, or rather, as is believed, his attorneys thought it would prejudice his case if he gave bond after Judge Wofford had overruled a motion for a change of venue.

ODD SCENE, THIS.

White Mother of a Colored Boy Pleads to a Justice With Some Success.

Will Hurd and Charles E. Johnson, colored boys, were arraigned before Justice Krueger yesterday, charged with stealing $500 worth of lead pipe from the vacant store room at 609 Main street. Johnson, who has been in trouble before, began crying as he told the justice that he had stolen only one piece of pipe and that he had not stolen several men carrying pipe away from the building. When the justice asked Hurd if he had stolen the pipe, he began to weep also. He had never been in court before. Johnson, who is a quarrelsome fellow, took his companion, upbraided him for crying, "Stop your howling and tell the judge what you know," and then said, "I am no good," was the advice of the Johnson boy, whose eyes were also full of tears.

Mrs. Hurd, who is a white woman, pleaded with the justice to be lenient with her boy. She is a German woman, and was neatly dressed. As she sat on the prisoners' bench, holding her boy in her lap.

and drying the tears that trickled down his dark cheek with kisses, the scene was one of strange incongruity. But the mother's apparent devotion for her dark skinned child excited the sympathy of the court and the boy was let off with a ten days sentence in jail. Johnson, however, who had no mother to weep and plead for him, was sentenced to thirty days in jail.

RIGHT BACK IN PRISON.

The "Gentleman Burglar's" Partner Gets Out of the Workhouse and Lands in Jail.

Jim Williams, a well known crook, was yesterday sentenced to thirty days in jail by Justice Krueger for attempting to rob Fred Kessel's safe at 520 Grand avenue. Williams was a partner of Duane, the "gentleman burglar," and was arrested at the same time Duane was captured. No charge was made against him, however, and he was released. While Duane was in jail, Williams called one day to see him. He was wearing an overcoat which one of the jailers recognized from the department. Williams was arrested, and while he was being searched at the police station, a set of steel saws was found in the collar of the coat. He was sentenced to six months in the workhouse for his part in the robbery of Kessel's store and finding no one there attempted to rob the safe.

MISS MILLER ASKS $10,000.

One of the Victims of the Baker Elevator Accident Sues for Damages.

Miss Emma Miller, who was badly injured in the elevator accident at the C. J. Baker Tent and Awning Company's factory at 104 and 106 West Third street, June 22 last, brought suit yesterday for $10,000 damages for the injuries she received on that occasion. Miss Miller was very badly hurt, both her legs being broken. She alleges that she also received internal and other injuries. The elevator which fell three stories, was crowded with employees of the factory at the time and several of them were injured. The elevator was not allowed to use regularly, but it is stated that it was not properly maintained. Miss Miller claims that the action of the elevator boy in permitting her to ride in the elevator was negligent. Baker liable for the injuries she received.

INJUNCTION DISSOLVED.

Police Are Again Free to Raid the Poolrooms at Their Pleasure.

Judge Henry decided yesterday that the repeal of the ordinance licensing the poolrooms was a revocation of the license, and he therefore dissolved the injunction previously granted restraining the police from arresting the proprietors of the poolrooms. This leaves the city authorities free to proceed against the gamblers, who had hitherto successfully contended that the city having licensed them, the city could not proceed against them. The grand jury has indicted the proprietors for not having a state and county license, and now that they have no city license, the situation is becoming simplified from a legal point of view.

Farmer Nabs a Thief.

Otto Rieke, a farmer, was sitting on his load of apples near the market yesterday morning, lost to everything in the world but the wonders of the circus parade. While his attention was thus attracted, John Watson helped himself to the farmer's coat, which was hung on the back of the wagon. A witness to the theft informed the farmer of his loss and he turned out the thief who was rapidly losing himself in the crowd. Rieke gave chase and captured him. He turned him over to an officer. Watson was arraigned before Justice Krueger and committed to jail for trial Saturday.

Manager A. F. The plans for this improvement have not yet been completed, but will be placed in Mr. Nathan's hands tomorrow, when they will be sent to New York to be passed upon by the board of directors of the company, and, if approved, the improvements will be made within the next few weeks. Manager Nathan declined to state just what is contemplated in the matter of the proposed building action by the directors in New York.

IDENTIFIED AS A HOLOUP.

Cable Men Say John Creach Was One of the Men in Saturday Night's Robbery.

John Creach, living on the Southwest boulevard near State street, was arrested yesterday morning on suspicion of being one of the men who held up the Summit street cable train at Twenty-fifth and Summit streets Saturday night and robbed Conductor Harvey. Conductor Harvey and Gripman Israel went to police headquarters yesterday and positively identified Creach as one of the men who boarded the car and went through the conductor's pockets. He was also identified as the man who shot at Gripman Israel when he tried to stop him during the progress of the holdup.

Creach was arrested just before midnight Sunday by Officers Speers and Connel and Lieutenant Ahern, but broke away from them and made his escape.

W. V. Smoot, of East Eighteenth street, was arrested as an accomplice of Creach. He was not positively identified by the street men. Creach and Smoot are held for investigation.

Tramp Robbed of His Cash.

Frank Johnson and Robert Piper, both colored, came to Kansas City yesterday morning to see the circus parade and to enjoy the carnival festivities. They left Marshall, Mo., in a freight car where they made the acquaintance of William Devenport, also bound for Kansas City. Johnson and Piper were short of funds, and Devenport, who had that Devenport had $5 in his pocket, which sum he had saved up by dint of much labor, offered to lend them the money. He refused all costly pleasures and intended to spend his money lavishly during the week's festivities. Johnson and Piper started in the work they had mapped out for the week earlier than they had expected, and the result was that when Devenport crawled out of the box car in the freight yards he found that his money was gone. He had Johnson and Piper arrested and they were taken before Justice Krueger. They pleaded guilty and Johnson was sentenced to thirty days in jail and Piper to twenty days.

In five months Mr. Williams has turned over $18,000 in cash to the city treasurer. In 1934 the whole year's receipts were only $11,000.

P. F. Westfall, in whose saloon at 915 Independence avenue a poker game was raided Sunday night by the police, was fined $15 in police court yesterday. Four players were fined $5 and costs each. The young wife was asked why she retained her maiden name she replied because her father wanted it that way. "I did not want to give up everything," said she, "I have to take my name, too. I have no patience with the idea that a woman, when she marries, becomes the property of her husband. My idea of marriage is a partnership, not a state of ownership."
